Protect the vital interests of the data subject	Startup Lisboa may carry your personal data processing in order to protect your vital interests or of another natural person.
Legitimate interests	Startup Lisboa may carry your personal data processing for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by Startup Lisboa or by a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject.

5. Which security requirements are in place to prevent the data against unauthorised access, alteration or destruction?

Startup Lisboa takes all necessary and legally required precautions to ensure, considering the available technology, an adequate level of protection of data collected, in particular by implementing the necessary technical and organizational measures to protect your personal data against its accidental destruction, loss or alteration, as well as against access and other unauthorized actions, namely: (i) password protection, (ii) use of digital certifications, (iii) physical entry restrictions to the locations where servers that store personal data are located; (iv) "firewalls", (v) secure communication via https protocol. Startup Lisboa informs that these security measures are reviewed and updated according to the needs and state of the art of these materials.

Notwithstanding the security measures adopted by Startup Lisboa, we particularly advise the Website's Users to take security measures, namely active firewalls as well as updated antivirus and antispyware. Although the measures taken aimed at ensuring the online and offline security of data, Users should be aware that no security system can absolutely ensure that all of your data are protected.

If for any reason, it occurs a security breach that accidentally or unlawfully causes unauthorized destruction, loss, alteration, disclosure or access to your personal data, Startup Lisboa will notify without delay, and, where possible, within 72 hours from the knowledge of this fact, the relevant authorities, in accordance with applicable law. Likewise, Startup Lisboa will report the data breach to the individual in accordance with GDPR and other applicable law.

6. How can individuals access, correct or delete the personal data and exercise the other rights?

Startup Lisboa ensures, at any time, the exercise of the statutory rights by data subjects, namely the right of access, rectification, restriction of processing, data portability, object and erasure ("right to be forgotten"), as well as to object (opt-out) to data processing for direct marketing purposes.

For the exercise of the statutory rights, you may send a written request addressed to Startup Lisboa (data controller), by e-mail to hcb@startuplisboa.com or by courier to Startup Lisboa Rua da Prata, 78/80, 1100-413, Lisbon, Portugal.

If you consider that there was a breach of your statutory rights, you may lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority. In Portugal, the supervisory authority is Comissão Nacional de Proteção de Dados (hereafter "CNPD"). More information on CNPD is available at www.cnpd.pt.

7. For how long is the data stored?

Startup Lisboa will retain personal data collected from you only for as long as necessary for the data processing purposes. The storage period of data may therefore vary according to the purposes of data processing.

For instance, as regards newsletters, the data storage period starts from the opt-in date by filling in the form available on our Website and will end at the time you cancel the newsletter's subscription. In case you opt-out from receiving our newsletters, you will receive a notification by email and your details will be removed from our newsletters mailing list.

Once your personal data are no longer needed, Startup Lisboa will securely delete it.

Startup Lisboa may be obliged to retain personal data for a longer period where it has to comply with legal obligations on data retention periods, statutory limitation periods, potential claims and guidelines issued by the supervisory authorities, including by CNPD.

8. What are cookies and how does Startup Lisboa use them?

Our Website uses tracking technologies (cookies) to ensure several features and a better performance of the Website. These technologies allow us to collect data such as location, date and time of access, IP addresses, etc. More information about using tracking is available in our Cookies Policy.

COOKIES POLICY

This website uses cookies to provide necessary site functionalities and improve your online experience. By using this website, you agree with the use of cookies. If you do not accept cookies, please use your browser settings to find out how to manage cookies. For additional information, please see our Privacy Policy and Cookies Policy.

AIEL – Associação para a Inovação e Empreendedorismo de Lisboa (hereafter "Startup Lisboa") intends to ensure that your visit to our website at www.hubcriativobeato.com ("Website") is smooth, reliable and as useful to you as possible. For this purpose, we use cookies and similar technologies (hereafter, together referred to as “cookies”).

We notify you about our use of cookies when you first visit our Website, through a notification banner at the bottom of the page. By continuing to use the Website, you consent to our use of cookies. However, you can, at any time, change your cookies settings, and choose whether or not to accept cookies, and to delete them. The way you can do this, it will depend on the web browser that you use. For this, please refer to the "Help" function of your browser. Further information about managing your cookie settings is also provided below.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are automatically placed on your computer or mobile device when you visit almost any Website. They are stored by your Internet browser. Cookies contain basic information about your Internet use, but they do not normally identify you personally. Your browser sends these cookies back to the site every time you revisit it, so it can recognise your computer or mobile device and personalize and improve your Website experience. For instance, we use cookies on our Website to help us to understand what did and did not interest you about our Website, so we can provide you with features that are more relevant and useful to you next time you visit. We also use cookies to analyse how visitors use our Website.

Please note that our use of any information we collect about you through your use of cookies is subject to our Privacy Policy, which is linked to from the bottom of our Website.

What types of cookies do we use?

The cookies we use fall into the following three types:

Essential cookies

These cookies are required to help you access and visit the Website, as well as use all its features. Without these cookies, the Website would not function properly and you could not use some relevant features. For example, we use essential cookies to identify from which server you are accessing, to help detecting and preventing fraud, to control the sending of emails. You may find that you cannot disable essential cookies. The reason for this is that cookies are required to be able to access and use the content and features of the Website.

Analysis and customization cookies

Startup Lisboa intends to ensure that your visit to the Website is useful, easy and advantageous to you as possible. To that end, we use cookies to help us understand how the Website is being used and how we may improve your user experience. These analytics cookies may give us anonymous information to help us to understand which pages of the Website are most interesting to our visitors and if they have any errors. We use these cookies to test different aspects and features of our Website and to help us monitoring how our visitors have accessed our Website.

We also use cookies to store your settings and preferences on the Website, such as information you have previously entered when searching for certain options. Some personalization cookies are essential for using certain features of the Website.

The Website uses Google services, including Google Analytics. For Google's Privacy Policy and Terms of Service, click here.

Advertising cookies

Advertising cookies help to ensure that the advertisements you see on our Website are as important to you as possible. For example, certain advertising cookies help you to select ads based on your interests. Others help prevent the same ad from constantly appearing.

We also seek that the Website's user may share contents related to the project “Hub Criativo do Beato” of Startup Lisbon in a way as easy as possible, namely through their favourite social networks. Social networking sites such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest may set cookies that recognize you when viewing content on our Website and allow you to share content, send and post comments through sharing settings.

Examples (not exhaustive):

Types of cookies	What are the cookies used for

GOOGLE ANALYTICS

Google Analytics browser opt-out

To provide Website visitors with more choice on how their data is collected by Google Analytics, Google have developed the Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on. The add-on communicates with the Google Analytics JavaScript (ga.js) to indicate that information about the website visit should not be sent to Google Analytics. The Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on does not prevent information from being sent to the website itself or to other web analytics services. To learn more about the Google Analytics Browser Opt-out extra, please click here.
